Construction & Infrastructure

Ben Williams represents a diverse range of clients in the government contracts and construction industry including defense contractors, general contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, owners, insurers, and sureties.

Prior to joining the firm, Ben was an associate in the Washington, D.C. office of a national law firm where he focused his practice on construction law and government contracting. Previously, Ben was a law clerk with the same law firm while he earned his law degree at night.

Before launching his legal career, Ben was a construction manager, specializing in building facades and building envelope systems for numerous public and private projects. Building on that experience, Ben counsels clients in public bid protests, contract negotiation, requests for equitable adjustment, breach of contract claims, delays and disruptions, performance and design defects, terminations for default, past performance evaluations, mechanics liens, and payment and performance bond claims.

Ben was recognized as a Washington, D.C. "Rising Star" for 2017-2020 in the areas of Government Contracts by Super Lawyers magazine.
